Dean Explains Why Parking Law Is In Effect After Being Voted Down; Yearbook Price Problem Solved

Brother Patrick Says Parking Law Was His Own Regulation, And That He Is Willing To Discuss Modifications; Ex Council Sets Gael Price

After-effects of last week's student body balloting on the compulsory Gael issue and the campus parking law were felt in the Executive Council this week when Brother Patrick, dean of men, appeared before the student representatives to explain why the campus parking regulation, suspended last week by student body election, is still being enforced.

"It was my regulation to begin with," Brother Patrick said, "and the student body did not have the right to vote on it." Brother Patrick said that he had sent word to the Executive Council previous to the election notifying them that the disputed parking regulation was not to be put on the ballot.

AMENABLE TO CHANGES

However, Brother Patrick told the councilors this week that he is willing to meet with any student committee to discuss the present regulation and work out any worthy improvements they may suggest. "After all, we have grounds here that we must keep in order, and prohibiting automobile parking in front of the chapel is a fair and necessary means of preserving that order," he said.

Another effect of last week's balloting on the compulsory Gael issue, in which students voted by a 2-1 majority to make purchase of the Gael, Saint Mary's College yearbook, compulsory for all students registered at the college in the spring semester, at a set price of $3.50, was a resolution passed at this week's council meeting that will reduce the price of the Gael to $3 for student body card holders.

FISCAL MIX-UP

The decision of the Council to reduce the yearbook price for student body card holders was important in that students were informed early this semester that purchase of the ASSMC membership card automatically included a 50 cent down payment on the Gael, student body cards being sold at the usual $2.50 rate. Council members claimed this week that they had never consented to such a financial policy and that in view of present ASSMC financial status the Gael price would have to remain at $3.50.

This would mean that student body cards were falsely advertised when sold early this semester.

The matter was discussed, however, with Milo Mackin, Gael editor, and motion to reduce the price of the book for card holders, was passed, at the same time it was stipulated that no money out of the ASSMC tras-

Original Plays To Be Performed

In conjunction with the revival of dramatics, the English 163 drama theory class will present full length plays in the Patio of the Well, Brothers' patio. The plays will be performed next semester, according to Brother Henry, instructor in the course.

The dramas will be written, produced, and acted by the class as advanced field work in the study.

English 163 is an upper division course on the theory of the drama from the early Greek tragedy through the Morality plays, and Shakespeare, down to the modern era of George Bernard Shaw and Eugene O'Neill.

Rally Group Rejuvenated

Committee Will Aid Juniors in Sponsoring Santa Clara Rally

The rally committee will cooperate with the junior class in sponsoring the Santa Clara rally and will attempt to secure auto stickers for the promotion of pre-game enthusiasm. This was the announcement made by Robert Klatt, chairman, at a meeting of the group on Wednesday of this week.

MORE ACTIVITY SUGGESTED

Invited to speak at the meeting, William Feneran, Collegian sports editor, urged the group to further activity, offering several suggestions. "There is no reason," Feneran explained, "why the rally committee at Saint Mary's should not be more active and powerful. On other campi around the Bay Area the rally groups are recognized as one of the leading activities of the school. You should attempt to gain that reputation for your group." He invited the cooperation of the committee in sponsoring the Santa Clara rally, and suggested several activities for the baseball and basketball seasons.

RAFFLE TO BE HELD

Other activities planned by the group include the enforcement of the rooters' cap-white shirt regulation, weather permitting, and the conduction of a raffle. Posters made by Thomas Burke have been distributed around the campus for this purpose.

Another meeting of the group was announced for Monday, November 10, when Wallace Perry and William Kenney will report on the arrangements made for stickers, and suggestions will be made for skits to be presented at the Santa Clara game.

Student Brother Writes For Magazine

The Saint Mary's Scholasticate was given recognition in national Catholic circles this week with the publication of an article by Brother Cassian, student brother, on the Bill of Rights in the "Catholic World," widely read Catholic monthly.

Brother Cassian is in the final year at the Scholasticate here. An article on the race question which he wrote for the Moraga Quarterly, was condensed in the Catholic Mind last semester.

Tracy Predicts 20,000 Crowd At Duquesne Game

Ticket Manager Edward Tracy, announced today that he expects a crowd of 20,000 spectators to attend the Saint Mary's-Duquesne game at Kezar Stadium Sunday. Tickets are selling for $1.65, and Tracy said that "plenty of good seats are still for sale." The usual student and service men's rates will apply. Saint Mary's students will be admitted as usual at Gate 11.

Seats for the Saint Mary's-Santa Clara game, scheduled for Kezar on November 16, are selling exceptionally well, states Tracy, who predicted a sellout crowd of 60,000 if Saint Mary's defeats Duquesne, and if Santa Clara can get over Oregon this week end. Although applications for preferred seats have closed, Tracy stated that many good seats are still to be had. All tickets are $2.20.

12 Students Honored in Who's Who

This year, 12 Saint Mary's students will be honored by having their biographies appear in the 1941-42 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

PROMINENT STUDENTS

The students who have been selected to represent Saint Mary's in this publication are Gerard Fitzpatrick, Carl Kaiser, William Feneran, Paul Reginato, Edward Gunz, Harry McLaughlin, Milo Mackin, Daniel McNamara, August Zipse, Joseph Cosgrove, and John Tonsing.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is published in order to bring national recognition to prominent students on the college campi throughout America. The idea behind this book is to serve as an outstanding honor to students.

ACTIVITY COUNTS

The selection of students is not based on scholarship alone, but also on participation in extra-curricular activities. Only students who have completed two full years of college and have such qualities as character, leadership and scholarship are eligible for selection.

The purpose of this publication is not only to honor deserving students but also serves as a recommendation to the business world. Saint Mary's students whose biographies appeared in last year's edition of Who's Who include Jack Beck, George Farnham, Ilo Scatena and Horway Witteman.

Ilo Scatena Joins Cast Of CHN Play

Ilo Scatena, ASSMC treasurer, will play "Noel" in the Holy Names College play, "The Goose Hangs High," now under production for the night of November 24 at the Little Theater of the women's school.

At the same time, officials of the Moraga dramatics guild announced several changes in the casts for the three dramas to be presented late this month in the "One-Act Play" night.

The appointment of Scatena was made in order to fill the part vacated by another actor from Saint Mary's.

"Noel," the character to be portrayed by the ASSMC treasurer, is a horticulturist friend of "Bernard," lead role in the Holy Names drama, played by Raymond Henwood, Collegian advertising manager.

The changes in cast for the local dramatics group places James Lorigan, assistant sports editor of the Collegian, in the role of "Sniggers," in Lord Dunsany's "A Night at an Inn." In the same play, "Bill" will be played by Bertram Callen, freshman day student.

Seventh Radio Forum Set For Sunday

The seventh in a series of radio discussions sponsored by the Intercollegiate Forum, will be aired over Station KFRC, San Francisco, on Sunday, November 9th, at 11:15 a.m., according to Brother Cyprian, moderator of the group.

The topic for discussion will be, "Are Movies Being Used for Propaganda Purposes?" Those taking part will be Wood Semenau, representing San Jose State Teachers College; Ralph Van Hoorne, Senior Econ Major from the University of California; Miss Ruth Lane, Student Body President of the San Francisco College for Women; and Gerald O'Connor, senior debater from the University of San Francisco.

Witteman and Gallagher Win Debate Tourney

Winners Receive Brother V. Leo Trophy Award

Victors over the strong affirmative team of Francis Starrs and Donald Wood, sophomore day students, Horway Witteman and Eymard Gallagher, debate managers, were awarded the Brother V. Leo debate trophy. Witteman and Gallagher emerged the winners of the 1941 Interclass Forensic Tournament by their victory over Starrs and Wood in de La Salle Lounge Monday evening, November 3. The defeated team was the defending champions.

According to Gallagher, co-frosh debate manager, freshman debaters Joseph Picchi and Al Weber will begin frosh forensics by meeting an affirmative team from San Jose State on Station KROW from 2:00 to 2:30 Saturday, November 8. The topic reads: "Resolved That civil liberties should be curtailed during times of national emergency." A tentative debate with the University of California frosh has been scheduled for Thursday, November 13.

DEBATE TOPIC

The National Debate Topic: "Resolved: That the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions" will be the topic for the campus debate. A debate with the University of San Francisco and a tentative forensic meet with the University of Stanford complete the schedule for this month. Both debates will be campus affairs, held during the last week of November.

In regard to varsity debating, a negative team of Thomas Williams and Richard Saveri defended the "labor regulation" topic against an affirmative team from the University of California, Wednesday evening, November 5. Next Monday evening, John Schaeffer and Daniel McNamara will be the guests of the University of California in a reciprocal debate. The same evening Starrs and Wood will meet a negative team from the University of Santa Clara in de La Salle Lounge. The topic reads: "Resolved: That college students should receive draft deferment."

One week later, Monay, November 17, the affirmative team of William Feneran and Jack Beck will defend the affirmative of the topic: "Resolved: That movies should be used for propaganda purposes" against a squad from the University of Stanford.

Relations Group Elects New Leaders

At least one campus organization has taken seriously the wishes of Brother Austin, expressed by him at last week's student body meeting.

The International Relations Club has been reorganized under the direction of the moderator, Professor M. Joseph Foran, to include all the debaters in the school.

John Schaeffer is the new president of the club, while Milo Mackin has been elected secretary.

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

Under their leadership it is expected that the International Relations Club will be one of the most active campus organizations. Several debates and round table discussions with representatives from other colleges in northern California already have been planned.'

"The International Relations Club no longer will be a dormant organization," said Schaeffer. "We will endeavor to profit by what we learned at the Regional Conference, held two weeks ago at the San Francisco College for Women, by preparing and presenting more discussions on international topics of interest to all students."

MEMBERSHIP CHANGED

Heretofore, the members of the club have met to elect officers, but have immediately disbanded for the remainder of the year. Debaters with no connection with the club have always represented it at the annual conferences. These debaters will hereafter comprise the active membership.

Members besides Schaeffer and Mackin include Horway Witteman, Eymard Gallagher, August Zipse, Francis Starrs, Thomas Williams, Richard Saveri, Martin OConnell, Gerald Murphy, Jack Erlwein, Bert Callen, Joseph Picchi, Frank Mahoney, Stanley Gilliam, Donald Wood, and Daniel O'Connell.

'Saint Mary's Speaks' Will Change Air Time To Thurs.

GAME CAPTAIN—James McPartland, varsity left halfback, will be captain for the Duquesne game Sunday. McPartland, who played a brilliant game of football against Gonzaga last Sunday, is a senior and is playing his last season of collegiate football.

Annual K. C. 'Penny Bazaar' To Be Held in Gym Tonight

"All is in readiness for the Penny Bazaar tonight."

Such were the words of Grand Knight Frank Lemos today following a meeting of the Saint Mary's Council of the Knights of Columbus held in De La Salle lounge last evening. The bazaar is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock in the gym with the proceeds going to help raise funds for the Brother Urban Gregory Memorial Library.

Committees appointed by Grand Knight Frank Lemos include music, Ed Naughton of Salt Lake City council; change, Thomas Wynne; prizes, Donald Fye; games of chance and skill, Roy Lemucchi of Bakersfield council, Carter Callen, and Peter Tognasini; hall, Frank Medina of Flagstaff, Arizona council, and the "Mayor of Moraga," John E. Sanborn, refreshment.

OUTSIDE ASSISTANCE

Among the organizations and companies which have cooperated by assisting with work or by donating prizes are the Saint Mary's Church Girls' Club, Berkeley council of the Knights of Columbus, the Coca Cola Bottling Company, and the Del Monte Food Products Company.

The bazaar will last until 10 p.m., when there will be dancing until 12. Music will be furnished by Mario Sanguinetti's "Sioux City Six."

Each year the local council holds a penny bazaar.

Three Debaters In SFJC Conference

Three members of the Saint Mary's debate squad and Brother Cyprian, moderator of forensics, participated in a conference at San Francisco Junior College for the purpose of discussing various common problems relative to intercollegiate debating. Also attending were representatives from other Northern California colleges and junior colleges.

The conference took place yesterday, and the Saint Mary's debaters who attended were Joseph Picchi, John Schaeffer, and Eymard Gallagher

Soph Injured In Chemistry Explosion

An explosion which might have resulted in serious injuries to George Haggerty, sophomore chemistry student, took place in a Galileo Hall laboratory this week when a glass beaker containing sodium, blew up in his face.

GIVEN FIRST AID

Haggerty was given first aid treatment at the campus infirmary and was sent to Providence Hospital in Oakland where he received treatment for burns about the face and eyes. He did not return to school this week, but was ordered home to rest. His condition is reported as not serious.

Students who were in the laboratory at the time of the explosion said that evidently the glass container into which Haggerty had put some sodium also contained a few drops of water. Pure sodium metal combined with water can produce an explosion of terrific force.

ATTEMPTS TO REMOVE JAR

Haggerty, it was said, shook the jar in front of his face and walked toward the door of the room. Whether or not he was aware of the reaction that began to take place, students could not say, but indicated that he might have been trying to take the dangerous container out into the open.

Professor Campbell, head of the zoology department, heard the explosion and saw Haggerty collapse in the doorway, from where he was taken to the infirmary.

KROW Manager Grants Request For New Time as Program Seeks Increased Listening Public

"Saint Mary's Speaks" will be presented every Thursday evening from 7:45 to 8:00 p.m. for the rest of the school year, Keith Kirby, station manager of KROW, announced this week as he revealed the application for the new time had been accepted. In the past the program had been heard Saturdays from 1:45 to 2:00 p.m.

AUDIENCE WILL INCREASE

Robert Fouts, student announcer of the program, states: "The listening audience will increase one hundred per cent, and prominent interviewees will appear more often due to the convenience of our new time. We wish to express our gratitude to Keith Kirby for his cooperation during the last two years and also for this present change." Simultaneous with the announcement of the change, which is effective November 13, KROW states that adequate publicity will appear in the Oakland Post-Enquirer and in the Shopping News.

The program on the new date will include a pre-Santa Clara game slant with "Buck" Shaw, "Red" Strader and possibly "Red" Grange as honored guests.

DUKE COACH FEATURED

Tomorrow, Steve Sinko, the head coach of the "Dukes" of Duquesne, will be the featured guest and will be interviewed by Fouts. Also included will be a pre-Armistice Day feature of scrap-book tales honoring the 15 Saint Mary's men who died in the last war. The heroism of Lieutenant William J. Hanley, '17, who died sacrificing his life for his brother officers, will be dramatized by Robert Fouts and Cliff Hoff as narrator.

Last week's program included an interview of Paul Reginato, the game captain for the Gonzaga game, and the regular review of the news of the campus. The dramatic incidents in the colorful career of Garret McEnerney, Saint Mary's alumnus and dean of California lawyers, was postponed until some future date.

Ex-Gael Greats At Bronco Rally

Sports Writers, Coaches New Yells, Featured At Annual Event

Former gridiron greats from as far back as the days when football became a major sport at Saint Mary's College, and celebrities of the sports world, will shine in the limelight at the combined Santa Clara and "Off to Fordham" rally, to be held in the college gymnasium, Friday, November 14.

"This rally will be a real 'old time' rally and not a vaudeville act," said Bill Feneran, chairman of the arrangement committee. Feneran stressed the fact that whie the rally will feature vaudeville acts, such acts will serve only as intermissions, while the 'old time' rally theme will predominate.

CELEBRITIES INVITED

Prominent sports authorities have been invited to appear as guests for the evening. These include Harry B. Smith, veteran columnist of the San Francisco Chronicle; John Connolly, a Saint Mary's graduate and present sports editor of the Oakland Post-Enquirer, and Doug Montell, well-known sports-caster.

The program includes several short vaudeville acts, some to be given by campus groups. Thomas Coyne, versatile campus pianist, will play several numbers, while the Saint Mary's Glee Club, a new student organization on the campus, will sing at intervals throughout the evening.

"HI-HO" IS M.C.

John "Hi-Ho" Kenny, yell-leader in '37 who, according to Feneran, "was the only yell-leader whom Saint Mary's considered good enough to send back to Fordham," will act as master of ceremonies for the rally.

Louis Guisto, present owner of the co-op store; "Dutch" Conlan, head basketball coach and football referee; Bill Fisher, football coach at Commerce high school, and Ed Heffernan, assistant freshman football coach, will head the list of Gael "greats" to be honored at the rally.

BROTHER PATRICK ASSISTS

Brother Patrick, dean of men, is assisting the committee composed of James Lorrigan, Milo Mackin, Mario Menesini, and Edward Gunz, aiding Feneran in arranging a program for the rally.

A feature of the decorations of the rally will be cartoons by Thomas Dowd, freshman day student, and, according to Feneran, the decorations will be based upon an entirely new

Sacramento School Dept. Hires Grad

John Mamola, December graduate of the Class of 1939, recently has been appointed a long term temporary substitute teacher at Sacramento Senior High School.

A native Sacramentan, Mamola received his high school education at Christian Brothers, attended Sacramento Junior College, and then transferred to Saint Mary's. After graduation from the Moraga institution, he obtained his teaching certificate from the University of California.

Mamola, upon becoming a member of the faculty of the Sacramento High School, joins Wilfred Yost, '40, who is teaching mathematics at the Capital City school, having received his appointment last summer.

A third Saint Mary's graduate recently employed by the Sacramento School Department is William Glackin, '39, who is teaching in a junior high school.

Catholic Education Week Observance Will Feature Thursday ASSMC Meeting

National Catholic Education Week, November 10 to 14, will be observed on the campus in conformity with the policy of giving active expression to events of cultural significance, according to Brother Austin, president of Saint Mary's College.

A High Mass, celebrated by Father Manning, student chaplain, will open the week's activities. The Mass will begin at 9 a.m. A special sermon will be given by the Very Rev. Robert I. Falvey, Dean of Contra Costa County pastors, of St. Catherine's Church in Martinez.

A combined faculty and student body meeting in the gymnasium will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. Jack Beck, student body president, will preside. Tentative plans for the program call for one student speaker and two staff speakers, C. Wesley Davis, instructor in law, and Brother A. Joseph, instructor in chemistry, who came to Saint Mary's this year from Manhattan College.

The new Glee Club, under the direction of Edwin Hutchings, will sing several songs. Brother Austin will also address the assembly.

During the week the faculty will devote a portion of each class period to some phase of Catholic education in the world with particular reference to the United States. Instructors will give their personal reactions and experiences in these discussions.

The Thursday session will mark the firt time in recent years that the gym will have been used for a general student body assembly. The reason for using it is due to the fact that all the student body members cannot be accommodated in D201.

"By means of the events this week," stated Brother Austin, "the college wishes to show the keen interest of the faculty and administration in matters educative, and to put particular emphasis on the role that Saint Mary's College has played and is playing in Catholic education."

Brother Austin Lauds APGU for Increased Activity And at Same Time Warns Other Clubs Must Show Life

"Incipit Vita Nuova."

These words from the immortal Dante mark the new theme of the Alpha Gamma Upsilon Society of Saint Mary's College, according to Ilo Scatena, president.

APGU REBORN

Scatena announced that the APGU has experienced a virtual rebirth and new life on the campus. Proof of this fact was given Wednesday, October 29, when the honor group sponsored its first event of the season, the official initiating of the new members into the club. Further evidence of the academic rebirth was given last Wednesday when the society sponsored the first Catholic National Book Week program ever to be held on the Saint Mary's campus.

The new program has already received the spirited support and full cooperation of Brother Austin, F.S.C., president of Saint Mary's College. This cooperation was given by Brother Austin in his speech to the student body last Wednesday.

TIRED OF PARASITES

"Every organization on the Saint Mary's campus must state its purpose and fulfill it," announced Brother Austin, "or else cease to function. Saint Mary's is tired of these parasite organizations which limit themselves to a sports program and a picture-taking for the Gael."

Emphasizing the fact that each club must have an academic program scheduled if it is to function, Brother Austin criticized dormant clubs already existing on the campus, and also stated the ideal purpose of any college group.

STATES PURPOSE OF CLUBS

"The purpose of any college club or group is to have some kind of academic influence on the individual participating or belonging to that club," he announced. "The APGU this term has already begun to function as an organization should. It has sponsored two cultural programs, which were of merit both to the college and the individuals. We do not want clubs that are just concerned with a basketball game, and then cease to function until the next game. We want clubs that are capable of accomplishing a definite academic and cultural program."

Outlining the method in which this purpose may be accomplished, Brother Austin, continued, "This may be done in many ways. There are many campus activities which should be supported by all Saint Mary's students, yet these important activities are barely existing. All Saint Mary's groups should support and sponsor those things which are of intelectual and real value to the college, namely, debating, the various radio programs, the school publications, and lastly and most important, the Moraga Quarterly.

CLUBS MUST ACT

Brother Austin concluded his talk with the warning that "all campus organizations must live up to their original academic purposes or cease to function altogether."

The APGU initiation marked the first time that the incoming members had been presented their certificates of honor by the president at a formal student body meeting and program.

Appearing as featured speakers of the day with Brother Austin were Professor Louis LeFevre, head of the history department; Brother Bede Edward, F.S.C., chairman of Saint Mary's education department, and Jack Beck, president of the ASSMC.

At the meeting, Brother V. Leo was made an honorary member of the society for his meritorious service to Saint Mary's, and was presented with a scroll and certificate. As a fitting tribute to Brother V. Leo, Edward Gunz, junior orator, read one of the "Moraga Poet's" many poems.

This event marked the revival of academic programs and events, which were held on the campus several years ago. "The APGU should really be commended," complimented Brother Austin, "for producing the first of a type of event that should be better supported and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone connected with Saint Mary's College."

Brother Austin also hinted that other campus organizations take notice and sponsor programs of academic and intellectual worth for the students.

Constitutional Changers Change Five Articles

Monday Meeting Produces Some Action From Group

Student Body President Jack Beck presided over a meeting of the members of the constitution committee who met in the Collegian office last Monday, November 3, to discuss changes in the old student body of laws.

As a result of this meeting, five of the twelve articles included in the constitution have been revised. Presentation of the new constitution in its complete form is planned for late this semester when the members of the ASSMC will go to the polls to approve or defeat it.

"From now on," stated Beck, "the committee will concern itself with the phrasing of the actual laws to be included in the remaining seven articles."

"The members of this group will meet regularly each week in order that the revision of the constitution will be completed before the close of the present school semester," he further added.

As soon as the committee has formulated the new constitution, it will be submitted to Dr. James L. Hagerty, chairman of the school of Arts and Letters, who will pass on the final draft of the document.

Besides Beck, four other members of the seven-man committee were present at the last meeting. They were Gerard Fitzpatrick, vice-president of the ASSMC, Daniel McNamara, junior, who initiated the revision, Richard Saveri, sophomore class president, and George Farnham, editor of the Collegian. Ned Cotter, senior class president, and Edward Gunz, junior class president, were not present.

CAA Coordinator To Be Wed Tomorrow

William J. Milliken, coordinator of the Civilian pilot program for Saint Mary's College under the CAA, and former comptroller for the College, will marry Miss Deborah Helen Pike on Saturday, November 22, at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Walnut Creek at three o'clock. The couple will live on El Pintado road near Danville after they return from their honeymoon.

JACK KELLY

Music maestro, and an undisputed one at that, is John Edward Kelly, Irish, blue-eyed, a cartoonist of no mean ability, and a man behind presidents. For four years Jack has been the sole baton twirler on the campus and his band, though now dispersed, has been a favorite and reliable performer at numerous campus social functions.

The young man Kelly, graduated from Polytechnic high school, San Francisco, in December, 1937, and in January, Jack matriculated at Saint Mary's. He got off to a better than average start since, as a mid-year student, he skirted the usual hazing of the first year men. Strangely enough the man who became Moraga's maestro came here to get an artist's background for further use in the field of commercial art.

KELLY LEARNS KEITH

It was in art class that he became acquainted with Brother Cornelius and Brother's work on the life of Keith, noted California artist. His interest in the work caused Brother Cornelius to give Kelly the manuscript to be typed. After two years of typing and re-typing the thing, Kelly claims to know the "Life of Keith," as yet un-published, by heart!

Jack has had thirteen years of piano lessons and practice, and, though few people have heard that kind of music created by Kelly, he boasts that eight of the thirteen years were spent in rending and rendering the classics. 'His musical ambitions, now his life's ambitions, Jack Kelly envisions the day when some announcer shall proclaim to the world that "you are listening to the music of Jack Kelly, his piano and his orchestra."

EX-COLLEGIAN WRITER

As a freshman, Kelly, a venturesome person, stuck his nose inside the Collegian room for a brief while, but only for a brief while, and then he decided that he was not meant to be a newspaperwriter even for fun. However, he stayed vaguely connected with the paper by drawing cartoons and he won his Collegian award in that manner. An art student and an amateur cartoonist, Kelly now and then gets an idea (or roomie Beck does) for a good cartoon and then draws it. Recently, however, the lack of humor, he says, on the campus has caused him to neglect a public showing of his work.

OH, OH!

But Jack is over twenty-one, don't know how to fly, is physically swell, and they don't defer "jive merchants"—at least not yet.

JUST A HEAVY FOG—What won't Gael rooters go through in order to see their team play! One thing they are not afraid of, as the above series of pictures proves, is rain (Pardon us, SF C of C). Note, also, the inventiveness—rain-shelters improvised from everything from field tarpaulins to old copies of the Collegian. The tent-covered individuals on the extreme left are (left to right) David Rooney, Jack Gallagher, Morris Bamberry, Burt Atwood, Andrew Franzoia, and Bob Roberts. Rooters in right-hand pictures remain unidentified.

St. Mary's Club Notes

DIRECTORS' MEETING

A meeting of the Board of Directors will be held on Tuesday evening, November 11, 1941, at the New Pearl Oyster House, 442 Pine street, at 6:15 p.m. All officers, directors and past presidents should attend. Please advise the Recording Secretary, Frank Neary, at HEmlock 7000, if you cannot attend.

CARD PARTY

A card party sponsored by the Saint Mary's Guild will be held at the Acme Brewery, Monday evening, November 24, at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents and there will be dancing and entertainment. All proceeds will go to the Guild Scholarship Fund. Saint Mary's Club members are invited.

MUDFEST AT KEZAR

Missed the following members at the Mudfest at Kezar last Sunday: Joe Fitzgerald, Ronald J. MacDonald, Charley Pohley, George Callan and Thomas Kennedy, Sr. We hope to see the above members out at the Duquesne game next Sunday. Thru our rose-colored glasses we could see Andy R. Johnson and Frank Murray sitting in the press box. Just a couple of hardy grid fans who braved the rain. We hope to see Andy R. Johnson at the next Directors' Meeting.

SANTA CLARA GAME

Don't forget that the Santa Clara-Saint Mary's game will be played on Sunday, November 16, 1941. Ticket applications closed Friday midnight, October 31, 1941. You were warned on several occasions that the applications would close on that date. Some of the members as usual forgot to send in their applications for tickets. If you happen to be the one who forgot, and want tickets for this game, kindly contact Emmett Dillon at VAlencia 9698. Emmett will advise you how to secure your tickets.

NEWS

Don't forget to send in all the news about yourself and fellow clubmen to the Saint Mary's Club, P. O. Box 327, San Francisco, Cal. It will be printed in the next Collegian.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Members who have a change of address, kindly notify the Financial Secretary

New member Francis V. Scarpullo is the assistant manager of the Tortola Tamale Cafe at 1237 Polk street and inivtes all members to visit his place before and after the games.

John Lawrence Sullivan, a new member, operates Sullivan's Pet Shop at 1107 Market street. Edward, his brother, is also a member of the club. How come the shortage of Tioga Dog Food? Will see you in Sec. 11 at the Santa Clara game.

OCTOBER MEETING

The last regular monthly meeting was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Wednesday night, October 29th. It was very gratifying to see such a good turnout of the Club members. We cannot stress too strongly the importance of attending the monthly meetings, particularly the new members. A good suggestion would be for the sponsors to contact their new members and become active in the affairs of the Club. The meeting was very spirited, with discussion regarding the Watsonville pre-Duquesne game trip and also selection of a meeting place in the Mission district among other business that was brought up, and adjourned in memory of our late member, Harry F. Donohue.

MEMBERSHIP

Henry O'Shaughnessy, chairman of the membership committee, wishes to thank all the members for the splendid cooperation in the membership drive, which has just concluded. Over 65 new members were inducted in the space of a little over a month, which really is something, and new members are still being signed up. It would be fine if the Club members who are in possession of an application blank would get busy and each sign up a new member.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

A move is under way to have a radio installed on one of our local street cars for Francis O'Neill, who sometimes finds it difficult to get off work for the Gael tilts . . . Tom Deasy, chairman of the Watsonville trek, breaking the front page of the Chronicle Green Sheet with some nice publicity; good work, Tom . . . Prexy Hap Kennedy winning the second prize, a pair of ducats to the Saint Mary's-Santa Clara game, in the membership drive, by a photo finish; wonder if he still has that rubber stamp? . . . W. J. Quinn, from Borden's, always boots the Gaels in on top when he attends the games; don't think we should let him out of sight for the next few weeks . . . Where, oh where, is Lloyd Kingsley of the same concern? Miss seeing you, Lloyd.

PERSONALS

At the Saint Mary's-Gonzaga game: The three Musketeers, Quinn, Lang and Wettstein, purveyors of more cream to the quart, doing a nice job rooting for the Gaels . . . Also on deck, Joe Flanagan and Jim Casey, the Jones brothers, Clarence Roney, Tom Mellot and Dr. Maurice Growney, the latter a proud papa, passing around cheroots . . . Tom Deasy right on the job; Tom says he gets up a lot of steam for the team with an extra good stogie . . . Thought for a minute that Danny Dee was going into the raincoat and accessory business, but he said it was just a precautionary idea of his own; where was your rowboat, Danny? . . . Tom Maguire, also on the safe side with a bottle of hot tea in his jeans; these boys sure believe in playing 'em safe. . . . Frank Neary, braving the elements . . . The Gold Dust Twins, Hap Kennedy and Ray Miller, at home in the going, or did they bring along some hot coffee? . . . Emmett Dillon is now able to get around a bit following his illness, and we all hope that he will be brand new for the "Little Big Game."

DIRECTORS MEET

The directors met on Tuesday, November 4, in the San Francisco Elks Club, and in addition to the directors, President Brother Austin, and Moderator, Brother Henry were in attendance.

Two of the most important items of business were the establishment of a city wide committee composed by Representative Alumni and the Scholarship Fund Committee. The former under the chairmanship of Edward J. McSweeney will be a committee composed of representatives from each parish in the city of San Francisco. These parish representatives are to be charged with the duty of fostering the ends and aims of Saint Mary's in all off-campus activities. This San Francisco committee is a fore runner of others to be appointed throughout the state on a geographical basis.

The Scholarship Fund committee, under the chairmanship of Willard Gates will have for its purpose the creation and maintenance of a scholarship fund solicited from among the friends of Saint Mary's.

The members of this committee, to assist Mr. Gates, have been appointed by President Arata as follows: Gus O'Farrell, Jim Smith, Dr. Fred West, Albert T. Shine, Sylvester Andiano, Jack Henning, Jim McNamara, Andrew Pierovich, R. G. Barnett, George Bertain, Leo Englert, Victor Gaul, Daniel F. Hurley, Peter LoBianco, George McKeever, Dr. T. T. Shea, W. R. Treacy, John Valentini.

REMEMBER: Right now, write Bill Stern of NBC and Jimmy Dolan of CBS and ask for the Fordham-Sain Mary's direct National broadcast. It is most important that YOU, wherever you are, write at once!

CLASS OF 1935
ANNUAL REUNION

With Edward McSweeney as the chairman, the class of 1935 will gather next week at the Hotel Canterbury, 750 Sutter St., San Francisco, for its annual dinner and reunion. The item is set for 7:00 p.m. on November 10, the evening of the Armistice Day holiday. Total charge including refreshments will be $1.75. The chairman has arranged to show pictures of the 1941 Gael football games which may have been missed by class members who live at a distance from the city. Since some addresses have been lost or changed, members of the class are requested to spread the word about the dinner. Additional details may be secured from McSweeney, the dinner. Additional details 86 Whitney St., San Francisco, or from Paul Mulgrew, 1537 Webster St., Oakland, who is handling arrangements for the Eastbay.

1931 REUNION

z The 10th annual reunion of the class of 1931 will take place on November 28 in the newly remodeled Claremont Hotel in Berkeley. The party will start at 8 p.m. on the new Lido Deck with a dinner dance following in the main dining room.

Reservations may be made by calling Norm Horner in Oakland, HIgate 6320 or Tom Barrett in San Francisco, at DOuglas 8861.

JOINT WHIST PLAN

Plans are under way to conduct a Whist party and raffle to raise funds for the continuance of campus grounds. Presently it is expected that the affair will be held during the latter part of January, and the committee is busily engaged working on the details. The committee is composed of representatives of the Saint Mary's Guild, the Saint Mary's Club, and the Saint Mary's Alumni.

President Arata recently appointed the alumni committee with Frank Lynch as chairman, and Dr. Fred West, Father Moss, Willard Gates, and Phil Murphy as assistant committeemen.

Maybe Recorder Is Too Serious About National Emergency

"It is rumored that we are going to have school next Tuesday here at Saint Marys, Brother," said a Collegian reporter yesterday to the Recorder.

"Yes, and it's also rumored that we will have class on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday next week, also," said the Recorder.

"But, Brother,"—but it was no use arguing for the Recorder's office was firm in its announcement of classes scheduled all day next Tuesday, which means that any campus observance of Armistice Day will have to be held outside of regular class hours.

Essay Manuscripts Submitted to Judges

Manuscripts of competitors in the Oliver Essay contest were submitted to the judges following the completion of the competition on Wednesday, Brother Henry announced.

Results of the contest will be announced at a special Oliver Essay award assembly in De La Salle lounge on December 8, following the High Mass of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. At that time, prize money of $75 for first place, $50 for second, and $25 for third place winner will be presented.

The contest is sponsored annually by Bartley P. Oliver, of San Francisco, who is the oldest living alumnus of the college. Oliver, a patron of the arts, is a recipient of the Moraga Crest, an award of outstanding merit given each year to the Catholic layman who has best exemplified the "European tradition of culture" on the Pacific Coast. It is the highest honor the college can bestow.

Brother Henry expressed gratitude at the interest students have shown in the contest. This year more students than ever before participated in the contest.

APGU "Book Night" Acclaimed Success

A fairly good representation of students sat in the lounge Wednesday evening to hear music by the Cory sisters, papers and talks by student and faculty men, and a short address by Brother Austin, president of the college, in the APGU'S second activity since its revitilization a week ago.

The Cory sisters, Mary Ellen, Catherine, Emma, and Margaret, presented musical selections on stringed instruments and on shepherd's pipes. Three ladies, two from the Berkeley book guild and one from the Paulist library of San Francisco, gave interesting insights on the running of a library.

The student-body president of Santa Clara has been invited to speak and it is hoped that Buck Shaw, Bronco football coach, will also be available for the evening.

DANCE FOLLOWS RALLY

The rally will be followed by a dance, at which an admission price of fifty cents will be charged to men, while ladies will be admitted without charge. A popular orchestra, as yet unselected, will be engaged for the dance. Admission to the rally is free.

Robert Fouts, head yell-leader, and his two assistants, will introduce new songs and yells composed especially for the Santa Clara game at the rally.

The rally is being sponsored by the junior class with the cooperation of the rally committee.

COMPULSORY GAEL CALLED "BOON"

"Slashing the yearbook price for student body card holders is only being done to afford students a privilege they should have as paid up members of the ASSMC, a move that we can take in view of the boon that has been granted the Gael financial staff in passing of the compulsory Gael measure last week," stated Jack Beck, president of the ASSMC.

Brother Austin, president of the College, went on record this week in favor of the idea of the compulsory Gael, and will meet with an Executive Council committee to devise a means of collecting the fee at the beginning of next semester, according to Beck, who conferred with Brother Austin after the election last week.

The committee appointed by Gerard Fitzpatrick includes Ilo Scatena, Joseph Picchi, William Keating, and John Klein.

Present at this week's executive council meeting were Ilo Scatena, Gerard Fitzpatrick, Jack Beck, Joseph Picchi, Richard Saveri, William Pyne, George Farnham, John Klein, Milo Mackin, Daniel McNamara, John Feerick, William Keating, Horway Witteman, Max Ullom, Gonzalo Morales, Robert Fouts, and Roy Pucchi, representing Edward Gunz, junior class president).

Gael Gossip

By

BILL FENERAN

Collegian Sports Editor

WE HUMBLY PROFESS . . .

By the time you read this column, "Presto" Johnny Podesto from Modesto will have been made an honorary member of the Modesto Chamber of Commerce. This is just to quote to you an answer we received from one, Mr. James E. McCormick, former Saint Mary's man, now a prominent citizen of the fair city of Modesto. Mr. McCormick, upon receiving a request from this department for recognition of "Pitchin'-Johnny's" prowess and value, both to Modesto and Saint Mary's, by the Modesto C of C, wrote this to us:

"I was surprised and pleased to have your letter, and immediately telephoned several members of the Chamber of Commerce, particularly Mr. R. L. Kimmel, Secretary, Modesto, Chamber of Commerce, in reference to our "Podesto from Modesto.'

"Podesto is certainly making good and we are all proud of him. Good old Saint Mary's has quite a few fans here, and the town will be well represented at the (Santa Clara) game."

The results he, and we, got from the C of C, have already been written in the columns of the Bay dailies. Further, an engraved certificate, announcing Johnny Podesto's new position, will be presented to him, or to "Red" for him, at the Santa Clara rally dance, one week from tonight.

GAELS MUST MAKE SLATE . . .

There have been many comments recently concerning the 1942 football schedule. This is just to let the football team know that on their shoulders lies the success or failure of the '42 slate. The next three games on the Gael schedule will either make or break us Duquesne, Santa Clara and Fordham.

Duquesne is among the first fifteen in the nation; the Broncos are presumably the second best team on the Coast; while the Fordham Rams are fourth in the national ranking.

Providing the Gaels whip thoroughly any two, or (praise the Lord!) all three, Saint Mary's will have no difficulty in lining up an excellent array of opponents. With the record we will have then, the schools of the entire nation will bid for places on our schedule.

Needless to say, with two or all of the next three bottles to our credit, a bowl game would be imminent, and the results of that, obviously, would put the Gaels up on top of the ladder of fame. However, were we to drop two, or all, of the next three games, success would be an elusive gent to capture.

Rumor, (that's all, so far) has it that UCLA, Texas U., and several other of the nation's best, (including the Indians of Stanford), might possibly grace our slate within the next one, two or three years. As we said, this is to let the team know that on them depends the success or failure of our future football schedules. Take it from there, men!

HE HAS WHAT IT TAKES . . .

Still one of the best men on the Gael squad, though he's not getting the publicity he got last season, is TONY COMPAGNO. This is to tell you to watch who clears the way for the other boys, who fights like mad mhen he does carry the ball, until dropped by sheer weight of numbers, and who plays his heart out every time he gets on that field.

He may not be getting the publicity, for it's true he's had a tough time getting started, but he has showed he has courage and fortitude in sticking to the job. And if you don't think Tony Compagno is a valuable asset to the Saint Mary's ball club, watch, and make sure this Sunday.

Those in charge of the Santa Clara rally have sent cards of invitation to most former Gael gridders living around these parts. Some, however, may have been missed due to a lack of addresses. Any such ex-Saint Mary's men are cordially invited, as guests of the College. For further details, see front page.

BEHIND THE FACTS . . .

This is to tip you off to a few good things: the reason the Gaels tried that pass, instead of a line play, in the second quarter of the Gonzaga game, is a tribute to the sportsmanship of "Red" and the entire team. The boys wanted to give Roy Ruskusky, one of the best ends on this, or any other, coast, a chance to hit the scoring column, and earn his rightful place in the stars. Better luck next time, Russ; with a gang like those Gaels behind you, you can't miss.

Congrats to "Red" for shooting in as many boys as possible last Sunday. They deserved a chance, and you gave it to them!

Don Glendon and his form chart must take an awful beating! Cal's offense and defense go up and down, (not to mention her coaching—and Bertagnolli); Santa Clara's go and stop attack must drive him haywire; and the Gaels ever-improving defense and offense must cause him palpitations of the fractions.

SENOR MORAGA, STILL AT IT . . .

The heart-throb corner of this column comes now: This is to tell you, it shouldn't happen to a dog! We still, however, aren't doing so bad. Last week, we picked the Navy and WSC upsets, and nearly got that Northwestern game. Oh well, for this week, it's:

ALABAMA over Tulane; ARMY over Harvard; PENN over Columbia; FORDHAM to continue undefeated over Pitt; NORTHWESTERN over Indiana; MINNESOTA over Nebraska; and NOTRE DAME to end Navy's streak! CAL over Washington (we have yet to hit that Cal outfit right); OSC over UCLA; SANTA CLARA over Oregon (Nov. 11); STANFORD over USC; USF over Loyola; and the GAELS over Duquesne by TWO TOUCHDOWNS: Don't make a liar out of us, gang!

MEMOS TO MYSELF:

Just can't understand how young Johnny Podesto can stay unspoiled and bashful, what with receiving letters from idolizing youngsters asking for autographs. . . . Tony Compagno has finally returned to last year's fight and form. . . . Wonder, could it be the blasts he's NOT been getting in the local green sheets that did it? . . . There's a certain third team fullback who is of second or even first string calibre, but is content to remain on the bench rather than get out and hustle. . . .

Muses on Sunday's Mud Fest:

How 'bout that tackle, l'il Doug Sexton, (150 lb. with top coat on and dripping wet) put on Goodwin, the Zag star when he lifted him up and dumped him back for five. . . . Mayor Sandborne now pays the price of frolicking about last Sun. in the rain. . . . He's now in the infirmary.

We wonder if those silk blue pants, drowned in mud, Sun., are going to be any good for future play. . . and we'de hate to pay the cleaning bill, that's all. . . .

The big yellow page from the recorder's office went up this week. . . Take heed, ye Atlases. . . Jimmy McPartland finally has shaken that jinx. . . . He's been tackled and blocked at least fifty times and hasn't stayed down for the count so far. . . . Maybe that head injury wasn't as bad as it was painted. . . .

How 'bout a cheer for 'ol "Rootem Tootem" Fouts, the rah-rah Boy, for having the spirit to lead yells in the pelting rain last Sunday. . . . white ducks, canvas sneakears, et al. . . . We'd like to pause a moment and give thought to a great ex-USF footballer and a grand guy, Dan Fisk, who was killed in that Army plane crash, last week. . . .

Red hots, "Hamsy" Coll, and Johnny Odisio, were interviewed o'er the air last week on KSRO, Vallejo, and had their maps snapped. . . . Now they're fighting to get the published pics. . . . We reiterate. . . . "Red hots". . . .

Freshmen Clash With Rival Broncolts Tomorrow at San Jose In Yearling's 'Little-Big Game'

Santa Clarans Out To Avenge 1940 Defeat By Gaelets; Townsend, Morales, Verutti and Ferem Backfield for Favored Moraga Team

Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the Saint Mary's Frosh eleven will tangle in San Jose with its old rival, the Santa Clara yearling club.

The game was won by the Gaelets last year and the first year men are out to make it two in a row over the boys from Prune Valley. This should prove to be the toughest game on the Saint Mary's schedule, as the Broncos have an impressive record.

On a comparative basis, the Gaelets have the edge since both ball clubs have played two common opponents. The yearlings have defeated the USF Dons and the Humboldt State elevens by large scores; meanwhile Santa Clara defeated USF, 7 to 0, and Humboldt State, 19 to 6.

RUETZ SEEKS DEFENSE

Joe Ruetz, Frosh head coach, says he will shoot the works since this is the big game. He further states that he will be, like many other coaches, looking for a successful defense to stop the famous T-formation.

Ruetz believes that the Freshmen haven't as yet shown their full potentialities. They score early and then buckle up. However, he claims that they are a great defensive club.

The backfield combination of Bud Townsend, Gonsalo Morales, Jack Verutti, and Joe Ferem, will provide the speed and power which should be the spearhead of the Gael attack. Ruetz has a triple threat backfield man in Germain. The left halfback is one of the best passers and punters on the squad and is a hard runner.

Gaelets Upset SJ Staters 21-6

Saint Mary's Frosh handed San Jose State its first defeat of the season last Saturday, 21 to 6.

The yearlings did all their scoring in the first half and then played great defensive ball in the second half. Early in the first quarter, Bud Townsend, quarterback, caught a seven yard pass and romped 25 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. In the second quarter, fullback Joe Ferem broke loose for a 60 yard gallop to pay dirt.

Later in the same quarter, Ferem went 54 yards for another score. The Gaelets ended their scoring with a fourth quarter safety.

Rain, Rain Go Away, Phoenix Gotta Play!

This Sunday, weather permitting, the Phoenix meets Mickey's Tocanelli's, a fast moving semi-pro outfit at Washington Park, Alameda, at 11:30 a.m. Coach Earl Sheely will probably give the starting pitching assignment to Charlie Mori.

Due to the inclement weather, the team has had little opportunity to practice.

They won the only game played in the Winter League as yet, by a 4 to 2 score three weeks ago.

Beck Asks Letters For Ram Game 'Cast

Jack Beck, student body president, is working feverishly, to obtain a coast-to-coast broadcast of the Gael-Ram football game. This week he wrote to the president of the Fordham alumni, requesting all the members of his organization to write CBS and NBC, in an attempt to show public interest in the game.

In a further attempt to reach students and alumni of Saint Mary's, and impress them with his plan, he stated: "National interest will partially determine whether the Fordham-Saint Mary's football game will be broadcast. It is imperative that all members of the alumni, express their desire by writing to either Jimmy Dolan of CBS, or Bill Stern of NBC."

Gaels 'Hot' As Real Test In DU Looms

By JIM LORIGAN

Players and coaches of the now rolling Galloping Gaels voice the same opinion, that they all think a victory is in the offing next Sunday.

This, perhaps, intimates a slight touch of the overconfident, but "Red" Strader comes to the fore to state that overconfidence is the one thing with which Saint Mary's will not be plagued. "Red" claimed that after the California thumping, the team dares not become overconfident about any opponent, least of all, Duquesne.

He went further to state that Duquesne is to be rated along with the better teams of the nation, and that the caliber of their opponents could, and probably does, equal anything that the coast can produce.

ARABIAN SPEAKS

"General" George Arabian, speaking as first string quarterback, ventured to say that Sunday's battle would be tough and the difference wouldn't be any more than seven points in the Gael's favor.

The first string fullback, Johnny Odisio, was of the same opinion, declaring that a victory over Duquesne would buoy the spirit of the team up, and, as a consequence, would greatly enhance the chances of upsetting the Broncs on the following Sunday. Tony Compagno, last year's sensation, now rapidly returning to form, predicted a Gael win by 12 points, but not after the hardest struggle the team has had to date.

DUQUESNE TOUGH

"A win like this would mean a lot to us," was the opinion of Tommy "Hammer" Coll, regarding Sunday's battle. He further commented that Duquesne will be plenty tough and that the Gaels will have to be in top shape to take them. Portly Al Ratto, first team tackle, thought that "we ought to win by at least a touchdown, but have one whale of a time doing it."

LITTLE MIKE—Johnny Mike Goodwin, pint-sized Gonzaga star, was the whole Bulldog attack last Sunday in Kezar's mud-bowl, as the Northerners went down to defeat. Goodwin got away on this play, in the first quarter, with Henson in hot pursuit. He fumbled when hit, but recovered himself.

Varsity Swamps Bulldogs 26-0 In Kezar Battle

Playing in the muck of rain-soaked Kezar Stadium, Saint Mary's beat Gonzaga University, 26-0, last Sunday before fewer than a thousand spectators and loyal rooters.

The Gaels bided their time during the first half, and waited for a break. The half ended scoreless.

Early in the third quarter, Saint Mary's broke into the point column with Jim McPartland scooting across from the eight. On the conversion, Gonzaga was penalized to the one, so John Odisio plunged it over for the extra point.

ODISIO TALLIES

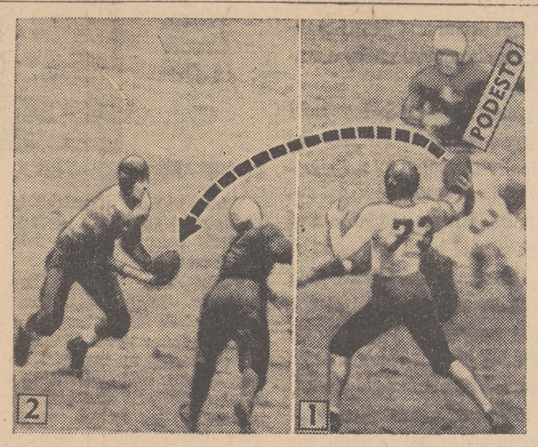
Another score came in the third quarter when Odisio went over right guard for 25 yards and a touchdown. Jim McPartland missed the conversion.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, Buzz Trebotich hit the line to score from the two. George Zubey's kick missed.

The final score came on a lateral pass from Trebotich to Quarterback Dooley Callen, who lateraled to Podesto. Podesto passed to Tom "Hammer" Coll in the end zone. Lou Gottschalk converted.

The game featured fine running by Jim McPartland, Tony Compagno, and Johnny Odisio, and exceptional punting by McPartland and George Zubey. Gael punts averaged a neat 38.8 for the day.

Gaels Court Nationwide Glory If Comeback Success



JOHNNY TO RUSS—Modesto Chamber of Commerce's newest member, Mr. Podesto, winds up and lets one go, in last Sunday's 26-0 Gonzaga win, to Roy Ruskusky, lanky Gael end. The play ended in a lateral, fumble and recovery for a gain.

Jorgensen: Big Tackle, 1933 All-U.S.

The 1931 edition of Saint Mary's Galloping Gaels was battling a highly favored USC Trojan varsity in Los Angeles on September 26, when, early in the first quarter, the Gael's star tackle and game captain, Toby Hunt, was injured and removed from the game. Saint Mary's supporters groaned, for now even the slim chance they had for a victory, seemingly disappeared.

CARL STARS

But Hunt's understudy was Carl Jorgensen, an unheralded sophomore, who came in and stopped the Trojan ground attack cold, and was greatly responsible for the Gael's stunning 13-to-7 win.

Standing one inch over six feet and weighing close to 210, the Marysville giant was a mainstay of the Gael forward wall for three years. Besides, Carl was an expert place-kicker, and it was more than once that his educated toe spelled the difference between victory and defeat.

The Little Big Game of 1932 found the Moragans trailing Santa Clara at the half, 13 to 0, but the Gaels came back in the second half to win, 14 to 13. It was Carl Jorgensen who started it all by recovering a Bronco fumble that paved the way for Saint Mary's first score; and it was he who ended it all by booting the pigskin squarely between the uprights for the deciding point.

NAMED ALL-AMERICAN

In his senior year, big Carl participated in the Gael's 13-to-6 win over Fordham, and it was his sensational play in that game that merited him selection on the New York Sun's All-American eleven.

At the present time, Jorgensen is coaching football and teaching business administration at Yuba City JC.

Modesto Not Through Honoring Podesto

November 4, 1941.

Mr. W. J. Feneran, Jr.
Saint Mary's College,
Saint Mary's, California.

Dear Mr. Feneran:

Through the kind office of Mr. McCormick, your letter has been forwarded to us and our board of directors discussed the matter yesterday.

We agree with you that Johnnie Podesto from Modesto has certainly brought honor upon his home town and we were all thrilled and pleased at the way in which the sports writers and sports casters tied Podesto and Modesto together in everything that was said or written about him.

Of course, we want to do something about it and we are grateful to you for the suggestion, but we are not sure as to what would be most appropriate for the occasion. We are going to frame up a certificate of honor and a membership in the Chamber of Commerce for one thing, but would like to do more than that.

Do you have any further ideas as to an appropriate gift that he could always keep?

You will hear again from us in a few days. With best wishes for a successful rally and a great game with Santa Clara.

Sincerely yours,
R. L. Kimmel, Sec.

Wins Over 'Dukes' Sunday, Broncs, Rams Later, Could Boost Team to Top Ranking

Erdelatz Tags Duquesne One of Five Best In Country; Phil Ahwesh To Throw Passes Against Podesto as Saint Mary's Loaded

The Galloping Gaels enter the home stretch of the 1941 football season this Sunday, when they encounter the Duquesne "Dukes," the first of the "terrible trio" that Saint Mary's will be called on to face in the next two weeks.

In these two weeks "Strader's Red Raiders" will face three of the nation's top teams. Fordham, and new coach Steve Sinko's Duquesne, are two of the remaining five undefeated and untied teams in the nation, with Fordham currently ranked the number two team in the country, topped only by Texas. Duquesne is not far behind. Santa Clara, despite its two defeats, is still one of the better teams of the year.

ERDELATZ SCOUTS

Eddie Erdelatz, assistant coach, who scouted Duquesne's 7-0 victory over the strong Villanova team in Pittsburgh last Saturday night, describes the Dukes as "terrific."

"Without doubt they are one of the five best teams in the nation," said Erdelatz. "They have a wide open attack that operates from different formations, the most deceptive being the Notre Dame box and the T. The ease with which they defeated Villanova was astounding. They rolled up 350 yards gained net from scrimmage, and made 17 first downs to one. A driving rain and muddy field kept the score down to 7-0."

PASSING DUEL

Erdelatz tabbed halfback Phil Ahwesh, a definite threat. He is a dangerous passer, one of the east's best, and a long punter. If the game is played on a dry field the Podesto-Ahwesh passing duel should prove to be very interesting.

With the exception of Donelli, Duquesne will field exactly the same team this year as last. The Dukes have 17 lettermen, and an all senior first string. As sophomores these 10 men went through an undefeated season, and as juniors last year they lost only one game, that by a 14-7 margin to the Orange Bowl champs.

This year they have won six in a row. Duquesne boasts the best record of any major team in the nation over a three year period: 21 wins, 1 loss, 1 tie.

Best O' The Week

(A regular Sports page feature from now till the end of the football season.)

Five victories in a row are a fine record, and many individual Gaels have aided immeasurably in building that record. Johnny Podesto, Odisio, Curry, Ruskusky, Compagno, Sheafe, Arabian, Clemons, and the other men have all, at one time or another, been among the best on the field. In Sunday's mud-fight, many of these same men, and others, showed to good advantage. Two were particularly outstanding, and so this week there are TWO bests. One has been a line stalwart for the past three years. Strong defensively, a good blocker, and exceptionally fast for his size, he gets half of this week's nod. The other boy has finally lived up to notices received over a period of three years. Against Gonzaga, he was a running, kicking and passing fool; every bit a swell ball player. The bests—

Will Gaels Come Back?

A few months ago the last people to admit that the Galloping Gaels had a ghost of a chance to come up with a successful season were the newspapermen of the bay area. Now, one by one, these same newspapermen are beginning to think differently, actually wondering whether the Gaels are reincarnations of that Phoenix who rose from the ashes of death.

They are justified in their contentions, for after being disastrously whipped by a California team, which later dropped three poorly played games in a row, the Gaels, frankly, didn't look as if they ranked among the first 150 teams in the national standings.

But the Gaels have come back under the direction of an intrepid coach and his staff, and now stand before the portals of football fame. For each individual member of the team, it was a job that they had to do after that California game. That they have done it well is evident by the last five games. Line charge has improved 100 per cent, consequently, the Gaels have improved their ground game immensely. Last week's game against Gonzaga attests to the fact that the Moragans have definitely placed their ground game on a par with their passing game. Blocking and tackling have also improved, in fact, the Gaels have improved so much in every department that they do not resemble in the slightest degree the team that lost so decisively to California.

Whether or not the Gaels have improved to a point where they are major to any top-ranking team in the nation remains to be seen Sunday. Against Duquesne the Gaels will have to play major league football to win. It will be interesting to note how a team that has improved throughout a ragged schedule by dint of perseverence will fare against an undefeated, untied ball club.

Shades of '61?

(Editor's Note: The following editorial is reprinted from the University of Portland "Beacon" for its oddness.)

Down on the Oregon and California boundary line is a county that has announced its intentions of seceding from the state of Oregon. Declare the citizens of this independent district "the resources of our county are not being suitably developed by the state and we are therefore endeavoring to secede from Oregon and become a part of California."

Whether or not the citizens of Curry County have a just basis for their argument is not known to us but we do know that such an action is decidedly un-American and definitely not in keeping with the best interests of the State of Oregon.

Remindful of the days of the Confederacy of the South the casual observer may note that in order to accomplish their aim these citizens must first of all petition the state legislature, the federal congress, the supreme court of the United States and a few other agencies before they can secede.

This action is remindful of that certain northwestern state which recently declared war on Germany. This action was characteristic of the state for it stood alone in '36—where did Curry County stand in '36?

It Can't Happen Here

We refuse to believe that some of the day students are spiteful creatures.

We cannot understand how anyone with sufficient gray matter could consider "getting back" on the administration, or those responsible for initiating the "No Parking" law, by spitefully strewing lunch papers up and down the roads which are the present parking zones.

It cannot be true that the day students, even a small number of them, could think of such an act of "retribution" because such an act would be too sophomoric even to mention, and we all know that the campus is absolutely devoid of "sophomores."

Help Them Do It Again

A success story written a year ago by the campus chapter of the Knights of Columbus will be read again tonight for the purpose of determining if a year's time can change the circumstances that make for successful social and profit-making financial affairs undertaken by campus organizations.

The annual penny bazaar being held tonight in the gymnasium under KC auspices was originally intended as a Catholic Action measure in promoting social relation between Saint Mary's students and the Catholic high school boys and girls of Walnut Creek. However, the social side of the affair was so successful that the local organization realized a large profit last year from the slight admission charge and the penny games of chance that were there only as a means of amusement, and the Knights have now decided to make the annual affair a means of obtaining money for support of the Brother Urban Gregory Memorial Library on the campus.

A threefold purpose is then fulfilled in the annual penny bazaar . . . promotion of Catholic Action, sponsorship of a library which is useful to all Saint Mary's students, and inexpensive amusement on the campus.

In view of the support being given tonight's affair by bay region and local merchants in donation of presents, and by the Catholic Girls' club of Walnut Creek, the Knights of Columbus predict that the circumstances which made last year's bazaar such a success are the same for tonight's affair depending only on the support of Saint Mary's students themselves.

Guess What . . . ?

This week's Collegian is marked number 12. What does that mean to you? This week the recorder's office started posting the familiar lists of matriculation numbers on the bulletin boards calling students to notice that class cutting privileges are used up. Does that mean something to you? Today is the first Friday of November. What, don't you get the idea yet?

Well, it's simply this. We older and wiser heads who edit the Collegian realize that the number 12 means that there will be only three more issues of the paper this semester—that the yellow lists of cut notices on the bulletin board indicate that everybody has had his fling at playing hookey from school, and it's time to get down to business—and the fact that today is first Friday reminds us that the next first Friday is final exam time around here.

Yes, you guessed it. That last sentence gave us away, so the moral is—only four more weeks until final exams!!

Who were the rod and gun boys who went hunting early Friday morn, bumped into a campus administrative official, and explained their position by saying, "The game warden said it was okay"? . . . and the Gael campus, being private property, is out of the territory of the local warden.

DATA: "Wee Willie" McPartland received an invite this week—to his ex-gal's wedding. . . . Now it's none other than a certain chamber of commerce down the valley somewhere that wants it known that Podesto is definitely from Modesto.

QUOTES OF THE WEEK: Carl Kaiser, tripping gaily into the hash house one p.m. this week, was heard to say: "I was driving down the road in my bus this morning, when one mama pig and three little pigs crossed the road in single file ahead of me; they were the cutest little tykes I've ever seen, and after they'd walked along with their noses in the mud, they stopped and looked up at me with the cutest little muddy faces that you could imagine." Ah! A romantic!

'BOUT THE CAMPUS: Bill Keating, we note with pleasure, has joined the ranks of the clean-shaven infidels. . . . Credit Where Credit Is Due

By GERARD FITZPATRICK

While passing it might be a thoughtful gesture to doff your rooter's bonnet in the following directions:

FIRST, to "Saint Mary's Speaks." Each week two or three active and interested students prepare the ENTIRE program, looking up material, writing, editing and presenting the final draft over the air. It is not a snap job, as you who slave over weekly compositions will testify but, since it is inadvisable to go before a microphone without a script, someone must do the writing. In the dim days of the past script writers handled that end of the program; announcers announced, and commentators commented. That bureaucratic system disintegrated. Now two or three men write, announce and comment, and lead yells and play baseball and manage to do a little school work on the side. The amazing thing is that a high quality is maintained in all departments. In our humble opinion "Saint Mary's Speaks" has hit upon its most effective formula: news, sports and a scrapbook tale or interview. The informal interchange of voices lends added listener interest. And so Hats Off to those acrobats of the airwaves, those minute-men of the mike, Cliff Hoff, Bob Fouts and August Zipse!

SECONDLY, to the MORAGA QUARTERLY. What isn't the MORAGA QUARTERLY? It is not a picture magazine, a scandal sheet or "famous funny" book. It is not a cowboy, detective or sports story publication. The Quarterly is not published for financial remuneration. If it were it might be one or all of the foregoing "isn'ts". Frankly, the Quarterly holds no attraction for the rootin' tootin' two gun fan or the "pictorial reader." But if you like occasionally to read—and we do not mean scan—something more than accidental import, if you want to set the cogs between your ears stirring, you will find enjoyment in the MORAGA QUARTERLY. The stuff is far from dead, because the authors are alive to their topics. Such names as Adler, Harrison and, yes, J. L. Hagerty (time out for a puckering of lips and an intake of breath) have a notable niche in erudite circles. The quality of the student essay and poem is guaranteed by their very appearance in the magazine. Pocketbook permitting, purchase a copy; if it prohibits, get a priority on someone elses copy and treat yourself to a mental constitutional. And so, tip your topper to the men of the MORAGA QUARTERLY!

THIRDLY, to Saint Mary's debating. For a model of activity the debate department goes to the head of the class. As a matter of fact the debaters are so darn active we defy you to try to sponsor an event when it will not conflict with a debate date. Always a strong point at Saint Mary's, debating has assumed such proportions that it is well nigh a monopoly in restraint of other activities! That isn't bad. On the contrary, it is a good sign. With the mass production of capable speakers, you can bet that Saint Mary's will be heard. On the land, over the air, and by the sea (San Quentin) you will find Saint Mary's debating. And so, doff your dink to the dauntless debaters and their equally dauntless moderator!

FOURTHLY, to the student body card holders who voted last week. Under the democratic system under which we allegedly operate, the will of the majority decides. When a vote is called for, it is up to the individual to see that his desire is tabulated. Coop oratory and bull sessions determine nothing; votes express the general will. Whether the total ballots represent one half, one third or even one tenth, the results therefrom are binding upon ALL. In the end you will find that most vociferous outcries, the loudest shouts of indignation, come not from the defeated minority—they have done their duty by voting—but from the originally indifferent group that could not find time to cast their ballot. 150 loyal ASSMC members voted last week on vital student body issues. The decision was by a convincing plurality. Now then, whether you, I, or any outnumbered organization, clique or "obstructionist" like it or not that decision should and MUST be fulfilled. Cooperation, willing or otherwise, must necessarily be forthcoming from EVERY quarter.

It will take action—unified, concerted action—to determine the majority is not heeded in this case, an independent, self-governing student body at Saint Mary's is hardly more than a farce. Lip service is not enough.

COMMENT ON CURRENT NEWS

By George Farnham

Those were harsh words that Brother Austin spoke last week at the APGU initiation. They were straight from the shoulder and were directed at every club on the campus. He said, in part, "If an organization does not fulfill its purpose, it should cease to be."

If fully enforced, Brother Austin's remarks would leave Saint Mary's almost without organizations, a sorry commentary on campus extracurricular life. There are very few groups here who can boast even a slightly active membership. There are more deadheads on the campus . . . than you can find in a cemetery. What to do about it? Leave them in the organizations and allow the clubs to undergo a slow disintegration from lethargy? Or bounce them out, weeding out those members who can only do harm to the organization?

To reiterate Brother Austin's comments, just exactly what good does it do a club to have a purpose which it does not fulfill? A club only becomes a name, then, a sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal, and these not loud enough to be heard. We can count the number of the active campus organizations on the fingers of one hand; the others are too many to enumerate. It is about time somebody did something about these clubs. Why not make them directly responsible to the Executive Council?

Here is a workable plan: Have the Executive Council grant a charter to all of the active clubs on the campus. Conditions of the charter, which would be nothing more than a license to operate, would be that the clubs maintain an active schedule and an active membership. This does not mean that these organizations must have something on the fire every week in order to retain their charter, but they must present a given minimum of activities, to be stipulated in the charter. A period of one or two years would be the term of the charter, with renewal to be granted upon petition provided the letter and spirit of the document have been upheld. That some such plan should be drawn is obvious; we must be rid of these organizations which are nothing more than glorified bull sessions.

It is our humble opinion that college editors and writers in general should restrain themselves from commenting, favorably or otherwise, on latest motion pictures. At least they should keep any criticisms which they may wish to make down to a minimum. This week, however, we are going to stretch this point to tell you about a movie which we think is an all-around "high" for Hollywood.

"All That Money Can Buy" is the name of the picture. It is the most engrossing film to be produced in many, many years. A Faustian story of the man who sold his soul to the devil, it has the typical Hollywood twist at the end when the man's soul is saved, mainly by the persuasive oratory of none other than the great Daniel Webster.

The plot is taken from a New Hampshire legend, originating in a boast that " 'Black Dan'l' could beat the devil in an argument." "Black Dan'l" does just that. The devil (Mr. Scratch in New Hampshire of the 1830's) signs a contract with Jabez Stone to give him "All that money can buy for seven years in exchange for his soul." There follows an excellent portrayal of the deterioration of soul by material things.

Finally the man realizes he is on his way to perdition, so he brings his troubles to Daniel Webster, who was, according to the picture, a cross between a congressman and a father to the people of his district. "Black Dan'l" argues before a jury of the damned, convinces them that had they been given another opportunity they would not again pursue their sinning ways which brought them to hell, and finally wins not only the soul of the condemned man, but his own which he had offered to the devil as a prize in order to have the opportunity to plead the case.

Walter Huston, who portrayed "Mr. Scratch," should get an academy award of some sort for this characterization. He was superb up to the very end of the picture. We won't tell you about the conclusion; it cannot be put effectively into words. It must be acted by such a top-ranking thespian as Mr. Huston. We don't think anyone else could have played the role so effectively as he did. Edward Arnold takes the Daniel Webster role in stride; Jane Darwell does excellently well; Ann Shirley and Simone Simon were well chosen for their parts, and Jabez Stone, a newcomer to the screen, is one of whom we shall hope to see much more in the future, but the picture belongs to Walter Huston. It is his vehicle, and he is an extraordinary rider.

This picture is definitely a "must see." The plot is well laid, the scenery well chosen, the acting superb, and the photography excellent. It is a cinema masterpiece, a work of art.

Three times a week and twice a day a small group of men are doing their utmost to establish a Glee Club on the campus.

Led by Father Manning and Edwin Hutchings, the organization is rounding out a musical program in preparation for the Santa Clara game rally. They are not having an easy time of it because of their small numbers. No Glee Club can be anywhere nearly efficient unless it has at least 15 members; there are only six on the campus so far, who have thought enough of the valuable lessons in singing being offered by Hutchings, widely known in the bay area as an excellent music teacher, to come out for the few practice sessions.

There should be more on this campus to take advantage of the Glee Club. There must be more than six out of 400 who have halfway melodious voices. True, we are not all nightingales; but we are certainly not all frogs!

Under Collar We're Hot

By RICHARD COLBERT

CAL CLEANUP—After something like one or two years of caustic criticism concerning the antics of their rooting-section, the University of California at Berkeley is attempting a clean-up. It's about time.

It would be silly to blame the entire rooting section, much less the entire student body (the co-eds are guiltless, we hope) for conduct more becoming to a waterfront saloon than a public gathering—we're afraid that's insulting to the waterfront saloon. But the question always arises: If the childishness evident in the rooting section is confined to a few neurotics, why does not the decent element take matters into its own hands?

We do not assume a holier-than-thou attitude in condemning something that is notorious from coast to coast. However, there is no question of what would happen to anyone indulging in such puerility in our own stands. And the reaction would be the same, we know, in every other college or university hereabouts. Offenders would be shown the sharp end of an impromptu Vigilance committee.

Mob spirit might be to blame, although no college student should admit that he is ruled by noise rather than intelligence. No, if the Berkeley Bear wishes to be considered innocent, he had better unhibernate and shake the lead out of his claws. The present brooming, sponsored by the Cal Honor Society (we're surprised to find any left!) should provide the necessary impetus. Here's to a laundried California Bear!

TROJAN THEME — Southern California U. has its own version of the soap contest in the annual Trojan slogan hunt. Two reserved seat tickets to the Southern Cal-UCLA game will reward the wit whose slogan is chosen by the judges to be the catch phrase for the 1941 Homecoming day.

The list of entries to date reads like a song-titler's nightmare, which we add up to mean that originality is not one of the Trojan virtues. For example: one of the recent slogans was "Come Away with Me Josephine, in My Trojan Machine." It does have a familiar ring, now doesn't it?

First prize was won in 1933, the year the contest began, by the slogan "Back to Back to Troy." That, we are sure, must have tickled the returning Trojan alumni. Then, a year later, the classical note made its entrance with "Man the Walls of Troy." "Reunite Trojan Might," which we think is about the shortest rhyme in existence, took the Annie Oakleys another year. year.

"Ship Ahoy! Sail on with Troy" provided a nautical splash in 1939. In other years student phraseologists took first place with "Troy Awaits with Open Gates," "Reinforce the Trojan Horse," and "Troy Treks Troyward."

We wonder if something might not be made out of Homer. "Homercoming Day" or something like that?

PAPER PARLEY—Direct contact between the two California colleges has now entered the twentieth century stage. Henceforth, the Daily Californian (Berkeley) and the California Daily Bruin (Los Angeles) will trade front-page and "spot" news stories via the ether.

"Ham" radio operators, students at the universities, function as messengers. Down south the messages are transmitted via the dot-'n-dash. The Beal transmitter operates as the usual broadcasting studio—sending orally.

It didn't happen here: The prof remarked, "I will not start today's lecture until the room settles down."

"Go home and sleep it off, old man," said the voice-from-the-back-of-the-room.
